Ok, Ok...Women of the Kardashian family STOP!

I'm so tired of opening every gossip column with another Kardashian story and yet here I am again! This time Khloe Kardashian was caught stretching every inch of fabric in what appears to be compression work out pants. Unconfirmed rumor has the fabric was heard to actually scream for help just before she bent over to get in her vehicle, at which time the back side exploded into a small cloud of dust.

John Legend gal pal and former Sports Illustrated cover model Chrissy Teigen recently went full frontal for a photo shoot.

We weren't able to get our hands on photos of the money spot but we are able to verify that based on the photos we reviewed, she's wearing nothing underneath the water.

Damn that beautiful ocean water!

STORY OF THE MONTH

The Jennifer Lopez untouched photos!

There are two things that I learned from these photos...One, Jennifer doesn't have perfect skin and Two, she looks better without make-up. Despite the fact that the photos haven't been retouched, she's still in great shape. It's the make-up that makes her look a wee bit older.

She's still gorgeous...sorry Sarah!

Bringing Sex, Each

Margaret Nolan

Born in Hampstead, London to Irish parents Margaret Nolan began her career in front of a camera lens as a model. Nolan returned to her birth name as soon as acting roles began rolling in. She appeared in numerous television shows, theatre productions and movies. The latter included A Hard Day's Night with the Beatles. It was her small role in film Goldfinger where she was painted gold in a gold bikini that lead to photographs of her being published in PLAYBOY.

I guess it really doesn't matter, she has an amazing body!

Top Floor Magazine answers the questions submitted to the Playboy Advisor

I'm 42 and divorced with three kids. Recently I let my 19 year old daughter move in with me to attend college. I'm open-minded enough to allow her and her friends to have all-night study sessions and video parties at the house. One of her friends and I hit it off from the start - joking around, innuendoes, harmless stuff. Having a young hottie flirt with me was definitely a boost to my ego. A few weeks ago I was taking a shower while my daughter and her friends were studying and this beauty slipped into the bathroom. Before I could object, she made me really happy she was there. I thought that would be the end of it - a crazy stunt. A few days later my daughter threw a finals party. I retired to my room to give the girls some space. The beauty walked in, stripped and joined me in bed. Since then it's been more of the same. Now she says she wants to bring out relationship out of the closet, show me off as her new boyfriend and even move in. I think I may love this girl, but at the same time I have to ask myself some serious questions. First, will this work out? If my daughter had started dating a 42 year old, I would have told her it wouldn't last. Second, what will my beauty's parents or my kids think? My own thoughts as a parent wouldn't be pretty. Can you help me get my head straight on this? - G.B.; Minneapolis, Minnesota

Sex isn't everything! Once the excitement of having a sexual encounter or that mutual attraction wears off, what will you talk about? I can't even imagine what it would be like for your daughter to have one of her friends retire to the bedroom with her father. The best way for a relationship to work is to have as few obstacles as possible, especially in the beginning. What you are considering is entering into a relationship that has an eww factor from the start...it won't work out.

How to build your guns

For those of you out there who are serious about having massive arm aka big guns this is need to know information.

Most of us believe that it's all about the biceps. When you strike that muscle man pose, it's that bulging muscle on top that wow the women...am I right?

That's nice but to actually build massive guns you have to work the three heads of your triceps.

Believe it or not, the triceps are the key to having those big guns because they make up two thirds of the arm muscle. You can look at it this way...the triceps are the cake and the bicep is the cherry on top.

So, here's my routine to build the triceps.

- Overhead pull over
- Bench pull over
- Tricep pull down

There are many more, look these up on the net and watch those guns grow!!!

The Road Within

A young man with Tourette's Syndrome embarks on a road trip with his recently-deceased mother's ashes.

I have to admit the it was Zoe Kravitz that had me a little interested in the film. The young man with Tourette's Syndrome played by Robert Patrick is just short of amazing, only because his outburst are timely bits of comedy. While the priest is speaking at his mother's funeral his shouts "Shut the fuck up, you fucking pedophile." The film features three people, from different walks of life with different diseases on a road trip, getting to know each other and becoming friends while at the same time healing on another.

JAMES BAY CHALK AND THE CALM

The iTunes editor wrote James Bay's voice is "like a knife." I get it! What I really like about this debut is the potential. Not only does Bay have display an extremely soulful voice over these rock trax, you can tell that he has the chops to sing just about anything. He reminds me a little of Ed Sheeran with a drop of John Mayer but with a hint of (insert sixties soul singer here). I'm head over heels for the soul jerking tracks Scars and Move Together. Great debut for sure, can't wait to hear more.

How the U.S. became an Oligarchy

Newsflash - Martin Gilens and Benjamin I. Page of Princeton University recently released a study titled Testing Theories of American Politics: Elites, Interest Groups, and Average citizens.

In their analyses they suggest that "majorities of the American public actually have little influence over the policies our government adopts. American do enjoy many features central to democratic governance, such as regular elections, freedom of speech and association and widespread (if still contested) franchise. But we believe that if policymaking is dominated by powerful business organizations and a small number of affluent Americans, then America's claims to being a democratic society are seriously threatened."

I'll get to more detail about their study and how they came to their conclusion. First, I would like to define what the hell an oligarchy is, point out who and what the hell caused it and hopefully come up with a few things we can do about it.

What is an oligarchy?

Oli-gar-chy (noun) a small group of people having control of a country, organization, or institution.

The definition could be simplified to mean the wealthy controlling the poor. In any country (except maybe Dubai) the rich will ALWAYS be the minority aka small group of people and the poor are aplenty.

Who set the stage for the death of democracy?

Good 'ol Ronald Reagan don't piss yourself...read on. Ron was responsible for getting rid of the Fairness Doctrine which was legislation that required holders of a broadcast license to present controversial topics in a manner that was fair and balanced. Not like the Fox bullshit but actually fair and balanced. If they wanted to talk about doughnuts, you had to have a person on who liked doughnuts and a guy who didn't..period!

It wasn't Reagan himself but his communication attorney that struck the first blow that got it revoked claiming that it hurt public interest and violated free speech. If our network doesn't like doughnuts, we should be able to broadcast the fact that we don't like doughnuts 24 hours a day without some asshole coming in to fuck it up. Right? That was the beginning of the propaganda networks. Networks designed specifically to mold public opinion. Oh, you don't like doughnuts? We don't either! Tune in and we'll tell you why you should say fuck doughnuts... tonight at nine. Of course, people could always choose to change the channel but if you really hate doughnuts...why would you? The initial attempt to reinstate it was vetoed by...Ronald Reagan.

Then there was trickle down economics aka Reaganomics!

By definition - trickle down economics is the idea that tax breaks or other economic benefits provided to businesses and upper income levels will inevitably benefit poorer members of society by improving the economy as a whole.

HOW? Human nature indicates that this would NEVER work! Let's use a little common sense! If you own a business that earns $100 a month and the government gives you $400 - that's $500 a month without having to change a damn thing. Why would I hire someone so that my $500 is now $430. Even if the person is amazing and earns me an extra $20...why bother? Same could be said for the wealthy, what does a tax cut do other than bulk up their bank accounts. They don't give a fuck about Tom and his family, they want to leave enough cash for everyone...every great, great, great grandchild to come out of the womb on a college campus, driving a Porsche. I mean c'mon! Really?

Last but not least...union busting!

Let's start with a few of the everyday advantages that the American worker has unions to thank for...

- Weekends off
- Breaks and lunches
- Paid vacation
- Family & Medical leave
- Sick time
- 8 hour work day
- Overtime pay
- Child labor laws
- Occupational Safety
- 40 hour work week
- Worker's compensation
- Pensions
- Holiday pay
- Sexual Harassment laws
- Military leave
- Pregnancy and parental leave
- The right to strike
- THE END OF SWEATSHOPS IN THE UNITED STATES

It sickens me to think that there are a bunch of dumb fucks who think it's a good idea to put an end to unions. Why do you think the billionaire Walton family (Walmart in case you weren't aware) aka one of the largest employers in America bend over backwards to make sure their employees never get organized and form a union...can you say $8.50 an hour, unpaid overtime and lock ins.

Well, Reagan put together the blueprint for giving the middle finger to the American worker.

On August 3, 1981, the Air Traffic Controller's union declared a strike, seeking better working conditions, better pay and a 32-hour work week. Reagan said FUCK YOU, return to work or you're fired. On August 5, following the workers' refusal to return to work, Reagan fired the 11,345 striking air traffic controllers who had ignored the order and banned them from federal service for LIFE.

Well, that's 11,000+ people who just have to find another line of work. Reagan did it because he could. Yes, it's a fact that they really didn't have to right to strike because of a civil service clause but if you're working conditions aren't right and you're responsible for air traffic and landing planes...let's hear 'em out. It was a bad situation made a whole lot worse by having to replace and train 11,000 people.

Next...

Bill Clinton - see, I told you not to piss yourself.

Just when you thought it was George W. (we'll get to him) that caused all of that recent financial mess, well I'm here to tell you that you are definitely looking in the wrong place or should I say the wrong administration. It was on Bill's watch that Glass-Steagall was repealed. Glass-Steagall was this this little piece of legislation put in place in 1933 after the stock market crash that lead to the Great Depression where the American banking system was found to be running wild and screwing everyone in sight. They had set up this system where they sold securities right next to traditional banking products like deposits and loans. Investigations found that the system was so corrupt it would make Bernie Madoff look legit. Glass-Steagall said fuck that! Brokers would sell securities and banks would handle deposits and loans...period! Well, the banks said "Hey, Bill...a little help?" Surely the banks had learned their lesson, right? Nope! History repeated itself and banks started selling fraudulent home loans. Thanks to the Clinton administration's Community Reinvestment Act that required banks to reduce their discrimination against low and moderate income buyers, the banks had a whole new market to sell their fucked up product to. The banks put the poor and minorities in homes and allowed the rich to bet on how long they would be able to stay.

The loans were subprime mortgages. They allowed the home buyer to purchase a home with no money down at a low monthly rate that would balloon over the term of the loan. What's worse is the initial cost was kept low by allowing home buyers to just pay the interest on the loan. As the loan ballooned to include payments to the principle, people saw their $600 and month loan go to $1200 in a period of five years. While investors sat back and waited to collect on their investment people were being put out of their homes. On a personal note - I sat a watched a woman in her mid seventies that had bought her home under a traditional loan and had refinanced to a sub-prime mortgage for the lower rate, sit and cry during one of these BULLSHIT help for homeowners events that became so popular all over the country. To watch this senior who would have probably had her house paid off, beg for help that wasn't coming was one of the most heartbreakening things I've ever seen.

At the end of the day, this is what lead to all of the bank bailouts.

Which brings me to George W. Bush. There are some that say that George W. was one of the worst presidents ever. Let's start with the fact that he wasn't actually voted into office in the first place.

*While in office...

- He pulled out of the Kyoto Protocol which set requirements for 38 nations to lower greenhouse gas emissions to combat climate change, saying that abiding by the agreement would "harm our economy and hurt our workers."
- He embraced global isolationism. Withdrawing from the 1972 Anti-Ballistic Missile Treaty, over Russia's protest, taking the U.S. in a direction not seen since World War I.
- He ignored warnings about Osama bin Laden

- The Bush administration had twice as many FBI agents assigned to the war on drugs than fighting terrorism before 9/11, and kept thousands in that role after the terror attacks.
- Squandered global goodwill after 9/11. Bush thumbed his nose at world sympathy for the victims of the September 11, 2001 attacks, by declaring a global war on terrorism and declaring "you are either with us or against us."
- Bush turned to Iraq not Afghanistan. The Bush administration soon started beating war drums for an attack on Iraq, where there was no proven Al Qaeda link, instead of Afghanistan, where the 9/11 bombers had trained and Osama bin Laden was based. His 2002 State of the Union speech declared that Iraq was part of an "Axis of Evil."
- He flat-out lied about Iraq's weapons. In a major speech in October 2002, he said that Saddam Hussein had the capacity to send unmanned aircraft to the U.S. with bombs that could range from chemical weapons to nuclear devices. "We cannot wait for the final proof—the smoking gun—that could come in the form of a mushroom cloud," he said.
- Abandoned international Criminal Court. Before invading Iraq, Bush told the U.N. that the U.S. was withdrawing from ratifying the International Criminal Court Treaty to protect American troops from persecution and to allow it to pursue preemptive war.
- He launched a war on CIA whistleblowers. When a former ambassador, Joseph C. Wilson, wrote a New York Times op-ed saying there was no nuclear threat from Iraq, the White House retaliated by leaking the name and destroying the career of his wife, Valerie Plame, one of the CIA's top national security experts.
- Before leaving office, Bush pardoned the vice president's top staffer, Scooter Libby, for leaking Plame's name to the press.
- Bush ignored international ban on torture. Suspected terrorists were captured and tortured by the U.S. military in Baghdad's Abu Ghraib prison, in the highest profile example of how the Bush White House ignored international agreements, such as the Geneva Convention, that banned torture, and created a secret system of detention that was unmasked when photos made their way to the American media outlets.
- Created the blackhole at Gitmo and renditions. The Bush White House created the offshore military prison at Guantanamo Bay, Cuba, as well as secret detention sites in eastern Europe to evade domestic and military justice systems. Many of the men still jailed in Cuba were turned over to the U.S. military by bounty hunters.
- The Bush White House ignored basic civil liberties, most notably by launching a massive domestic spying program where millions of Americans' online activities were monitored with the help of big telecom companies. The government had no search warrant or court authority for its electronic dragnet.
- Iraq war created federal debt crisis. The total costs of the Iraq and Afghan wars will reach between $4 trillion and $6 trillion, when the long-term medical costs are added in for wounded veterans, a March 2013 report by a Harvard researcher has estimated. Earlier reports said the wars cost $2 billion a week.
- He cut veterans' healthcare funding. At the height of the Iraq war, the White House cut funding for veterans' healthcare by several billion dollars, slashed more than one billion from military housing and opposed extending healthcare to National Guard families, even as they were repeatedly tapped for extended and repeat overseas deployments.

- Then Bush decided to cut income taxes. In 2001 and 2003, a series of bills lowered income tax rates, cutting federal revenues as the cost of the foreign wars escalated. The tax cuts disproportionately benefited the wealthy, with roughly one-quarter going to the top one percent of incomes compared to 8.9% going to the middle 20 percent. The cuts were supposed to expire in 2013, but most are still on the books.
- Cut Pell Grant loans for poor students. His administration froze Pell Grants for years and tightened eligibility for loans, affecting 1.5 million low-income students. He also eliminated other federal job training programs that targeted young people.

We won't even mention his reaction to Hurricane Katrina or Mama Bush being quoted saying that some of the people in New Orleans were better off.

Here's where things get a little shaky...

- When Bill Clinton left office, 31.6 million Americans were living in poverty. When Bush left office, there were 39.8 million, according to the U.S. Census, an increase of 26.1 percent. The Census said two-thirds of that growth occurred before the economic downturn of 2008.
- The Census also found that 11.6 million children lived below the poverty line when Clinton left office. Under Bush, that number grew by 21 percent to 14.1 million.

I've always referred to the Bush administration as the Wild Wild West in American politics. Bush took office and unapologetically did whatever the FUCK he wanted to do. With Darth Vader aka Dick Chaney by his side they cultured the virus but the infection came from Clinton

When things finally reached their tipping point the unemployment rate was above 10% and people were losing their homes at an alarming rate.

*<http://www.alternet.org/news-amp-politics/50-reasons-you-despised-george-w-bushs-presidency-reminder-day-his-presidential>

If you look at the time line, you would almost say they did the shit on purpose. Just before Bush took office HUD and Fannie Mae began to focus on affordable housing for low-income families.

- October, Oct. 2000 - HUD Sec Andrew Cuomo ANNOUNCES NEW REGULATIONS TO PROVIDE $2.4 TRILLION IN MORTGAGES FOR AFFORDABLE HOUSING FOR 28.1 MILLION FAMILIES
- October 2000: Fannie Mae committed to purchase and securitize $2 billion of Community Investment Act-eligible loans.
- November 2000: Fannie Mae announced that the Department of Housing and Urban Development ("HUD") would soon require it to dedicate 50% of its business to low- and moderate-income families" and its goal was to finance over $500 billion in Community Investment Act-related business by 2010.
- December 2000: Commodity Futures Modernization Act of 2000 defines interest rates, currency prices, and stock indexes as "excluded commodities," allowing trade of credit-default swaps by hedge funds, investment banks or insurance companies with minimal oversight.

The shit was already set to hit the fan. Because of Clinton, mortgage fraud had begun to increase in 1997.

By the end of Bush's term, close to 4 million foreclosures had been filed, a number SO HIGH that the banks were having a hard time paying out on the "bets" the investors had placed.

In the end, to add insult to injury - TAXPAYERS HAD TO PAY FOR IT!

To prevent the American economy from completely collapsing, the American people gave $700 billion to the very corporations that had fucked them.

Americans began turning in circles, looking for some type of logical answer as to why the "greatest country on earth" was on the brink of collapse. Many turned to the media for answers and what they found was horrific.

The mainstream media was becoming less and less a source of information and more and more a source of entertainment. At the same time many of the 24 hour cable news networks seemed to have the own agenda.

The most popular among them is the Fox News Channel. Though they claim to be "Fair and Balanced" they are anything but. Everyone who knows anything about media has accused Fox of having a conservative bias in their "news coverage".

Former DNC Chairman Howard Dean has gone as far as calling Fox News a right wing propaganda machine.

In the spirit of Fox News I'll report, you decide...

- In 2000, Then-presidential candidate George W. Bush's cousin, John Prescott Ellis, was Fox News' projection team manager during the general election.
- On January 9, 2010, the son-in-law of News Corporation CEO Rupert Murdoch and the husband of Murdoch's daughter Elisabeth, Matthew Freud, stated he and other members of the media mogul's family are "ashamed and sickened" by the right leaning tendencies of Fox News.
- In June 2010, News Corporation donated $1 million to the Republican Governors Association.
- The Project on Excellence in Journalism report in 2006 showed that 68 percent of Fox cable stories contained personal opinions, as compared to MSNBC at 27 percent and CNN at 4 percent.
- A 2006 University of California, Berkeley study cited that there was a correlation between the presence of the Fox News Channel in cable markets and increases in Republican votes.

- In a 2010 study of the news coverage of the 2004 political party conventions, Morris and Francia found that Fox news reporting was more negative toward the Democratic Convention and gave Republicans more opportunity to voice their message than the other networks. The study also found that viewers who relied on Fox news coverage exhibited attitude change toward both candidates, but particularly a lowering opinions toward John Kerry. In contrast the study found that CNN's coverage was more fair and balanced.

I could go on and on but let just say that this network aggressively promotes the republican party.

At the other end of the spectrum American political news coverage is MSNBC. Studies suggest that it's not nearly as bad as Fox but their "news" could definitely be considered as political propaganda for the left.

You've already seen that CNN is the only network that injects very little opinion in their news coverage. However, the problem with CNN is they have a high level of entertainment news and God forbid a major story breaks. When the Malaysian flight crashed, the 24 hour news channel must have covered that story for 22 hours a day, EVERYDAY for at least two straight weeks.

Basically, as the rich began to take control of the country, the American people were lead into a dark room, force fed propaganda and told to choose a side

When things seemed like they could get any worse...

The country elected Barack Obama, the first African-American president.

There's a notion that if you have roaches, they will come out the moment you turn out the lights.

In other words, the moment the room gets dark...out come the roaches.

Since the founding of this country the White House had always been just that...white. The moment a man of color set up residence in that white house, every roach in the country came out of the cupboards.

Fueled by a middle class slowly disappearing and an overabundance of political misinformation from the media, the country exploded into tea parties, birthers, racist, bigots, right-wing extremist and militia groups dead set on "getting their country back".

The one good thing about the timing of the Obama's election was that the country was at such a low point that there was really no where to go but up.

But could we sort through all the bullshit to get there?

According to the Princeton study, it's too late!

Their study found that the corporations and the rich elite have already planted their claws deep into American political influence and ripped away each and every fabric of what our founding fathers would consider democracy.

And we let them do it!

Comedian George Carlin summed this up years ago...

But there's a reason. There's a reason. There's a reason for this, there's a reason education SUCKS, and it's the same reason it will never, ever, EVER be fixed.

It's never going to get any better, don't look for it, be happy with what you've got.

Because the owners, the owners of this country don't want that. I'm talking about the real owners now, the BIG owners! The Wealthy... the REAL owners! The big wealthy business interests that control things and make all the important decisions.

Forget the politicians. They are irrelevant.

The politicians are put there to give you the idea that you have freedom of choice. You don't. You have no choice!

You have OWNERS!

They OWN YOU.

They own everything. They own all the important land. They own and control the corporations.

They've long since bought, and paid for the Senate, the Congress, the state houses, the city halls, they got the judges in their back pockets and they own all the big media companies, so they control just about all of the news and information you get to hear. They got you by the balls.

They spend billions of dollars every year lobbying, lobbying, to get what they want. Well, we know what they want. They want more for themselves and less for everybody else, but I'll tell you what they don't want:

They don't want a population of citizens capable of critical thinking. They don't want well informed, well educated people capable of critical thinking. They're not interested in that. That doesn't help them. That's against their interests.

That's right. They don't want people who are smart enough to sit around a kitchen table and think about how badly they're getting fucked by a system that threw them overboard 30 fucking years ago. They don't want that!

You know what they want?

They want obedient workers.

Obedient workers, people who are just smart enough to run the machines and do the paperwork. And just dumb enough to passively accept all these increasingly shitty jobs with the lower pay, the longer hours, the reduced benefits, the end of overtime and vanishing pension that disappears the minute you go to collect it, and now they're coming for your Social Security money.

They want your retirement money.

They want it back so they can give it to their criminal friends on Wall Street, and you know something? They'll get it.

They'll get it all from you sooner or later cause they own this fucking place!

It's a big club, and you ain't in it! You, and I, are not in the big club.

By the way, it's the same big club they use to beat you over the head with all day long when they tell you what to believe. All day long beating you over the head with their media telling you what to believe, what to think and what to buy. The table has tilted folks. The game is rigged and nobody seems to notice. Nobody seems to care!

Good honest hard-working people; white collar, blue collar it doesn't matter what color shirt you have on. Good honest hard-working people continue, these are people of modest means, continue to elect these rich cock suckers who don't give a fuck about you....they don't give a fuck about you....they don't give a FUCK about you.

They don't care about you at all... at all... AT ALL.

And nobody seems to notice.

Nobody seems to care.

That's what the owners count on.

The fact that Americans will probably remain willfully ignorant of the big red, white and blue dick that's being jammed up their assholes everyday, because the owners of this country know the truth.

It's called the American Dream, because you have to be asleep to believe it.

There's a condition that I like to refer to as comfortable being comfortable.

That's where Americans are right now.

As long as we are able to wake up with a roof over our heads, open the refrigerator, get something to eat, pop in a Keurig cup for a cup of coffee and rush off to a nine to five...then everything is Disney.

It's like the water shortage in California, until someone actually dies then the fact that the entire state is almost as dry as the Mojave desert it will be ignored and written off as someone else's problem.

Until New York is actually underwater because of the melting glaciers...all is good!

Or maybe when the militia groups, who are number three on the list of groups responsible for terrorism on American soil come to take over your neighborhood...until THEN all is good?

Perhaps we'll just wait until legislation is passed to allow members of the LGBT community to be killed on sight.

Or minority voters to be hung from trees.

It's not like these things haven't happened in this country before.

People have been killed and imprisoned for less.

Do we actually want to return to a time when crosses are being burned in people yards and folks are being hung from trees.

Are we so enamored with the rich and wealthy that we will allow them to pollute our water and air in the name of profit, so their children can live for generations in protected areas that common folks don't have access to.

Do we think that corporations have any interest at all in ensuring that they maintain a good public image so that they can continue to stay in business?

Haven't learned anything from Walmart? They have the WORST public image and yet people shop there EVERY FUCKING day. The days of corporate responsibility are OVER!

I can only hope I live long enough to see what it actually takes for Americans to realize that they have the power of Change.

THE SECOND COMING OF BETTIE PAGE

7 BETTIE PAGE

Playboy photographer: Bunny Yeager;

Miss January 1955

32C-23-35

Bettie was known as the Queen of Curves, the Dark Angel and the Queen of Bondage. She grew up in Nashville where she taught high school English. Some say that she quit because the boys in her class were uncontrollably distracted by her looks. But we think she wanted something else. In 1952 a New York photographer discovered her on Jones Beach. He took some pictures and made pin-up history.

AS FAR AS I'M CONCERNED, NO HAS DONE IT BETTER THAN BETTIE. I SAW A CLIP OF HER DANCING ONCE AND HER MOVES WERE SIMILAR TO HOW SOME WOMEN MOVE NOW. THIS WAS BACK IN 50'S...WOMEN WEREN'T SUPPOSED TO MOVE THAT WAY!

After picking her son up from school one day, the mother asks him what he did at school. The kid replies, "I had sex with my teacher." She gets so mad that when they get home, she orders him to go straight to his room. When the father returns home that evening, the mother angrily tells him the news of what their son had done. As the father hears the news, a huge grin spreads across his face. He walks to his son's room and asks him what happened at school, the son tells him, "I had sex with my teacher." The father tells the boy that he is so proud of him, and he is going to reward him with the bike he has been asking for. On the way to the store, the dad asks his son if he would like to ride his new bike home. His son responds, "No thanks Dad, my butt still hurts."

Sarah goes to school, and the teacher says, "Today we are going to learn multi-syllable words, class. Does anybody have an example of a multi-syllable word?" Sarah waves her hand, "Me, Miss Rogers, me, me!" Miss Rogers says, "All right, Sarah, what is your multi-syllable word?" Sarah says, "Mas-tur-bate." Miss Rogers smiles and says, "Wow, Sarah, that's a mouthful." Sarah says, "No, Miss Rogers, you're thinking of a blowjob."

A lady goes to the doctor and complains that her husband is losing interest in sex. The doctor gives her a pill, but warns her that it's still experimental. He tells her to slip it into his mashed potatoes at dinner, so that night, she does just that. About a week later, she's back at the doctor, where she says, "Doc, the pill worked great! I put it in the potatoes like you said! It wasn't five minutes later that he jumped up, raked all the food and dishes onto the floor, grabbed me, ripped all my clothes off, and ravaged me right there on the table!" The doctor says, "I'm sorry, we didn't realize the pill was that strong! The foundation will be glad to pay for any damages." "Nah," she says, "that's okay. We're never going back to that restaurant anyway."

A typical macho man married a typical good looking lady, and after the wedding, he laid down the following rules. "I'll be home when I want, if I want, what time I want, and I don't expect any hassle from you. I expect a great dinner to be on the table, unless I tell you that I won't be home for dinner. I'll go hunting, fishing, boozing, and card playing when I want with my old buddies, and don't you give me a hard time about it. Those are my rules. Any comments?" His new bride said, "No, that's fine with me. Just understand that there will be sex here at seven o'clock every night, whether you're here or not."

A woman places an ad in the local newspaper. "Looking for a man with three qualifications: won't beat me up, won't run away from me, and is great in bed." Two days later her doorbell rings. "Hi, I'm Tim. I have no arms so I won't beat you, and no legs so I won't run away." "What makes you think you are great in bed?" the woman retorts. Tim replies, "I rang the doorbell, didn't I?"

A lawyer married a woman who had previously divorced 10 husbands. On their wedding night, she told her new husband, "Please be gentle, I'm still a virgin." "What?" said the puzzled groom. "How can that be if you've been married 10 times?" "Well, Husband #1 was a sales representative. He kept telling me how great it was going to be. Husband #2 was in software services. He was never really sure how it was supposed to function, but he said he'd look into it and get back to me. Husband #3 was from field services. He said everything checked out diagnostically, but he just couldn't get the system up. Husband #4 was in telemarketing. Even though he knew he had the order, he didn't know when he would be able to deliver. Husband #5 was an engineer. He understood the basic process, but wanted three years to research, implement, and design a new state-of-the-art method. Husband #6 was from finance and administration. He thought he knew how, but he wasn't sure whether it was his job or not. Husband #7 was in marketing.

Although he had a nice product, he was never sure how to position it. Husband #8 was a psychologist. All he ever did was talk about it. Husband #9 was a gynecologist. All he did was look at it. Husband #10 was a stamp collector. All he ever did was... God! I miss him! But now that I've married you, I'm really excited!" "Good," said the new husband, "but, why?" "You're a lawyer. This time I know I'm going to get screwed!"

A guy and his date are parked out in the country away from town, when they start kissing and fondling each other. Just then, the girl stops and sits up. "What's the matter?" asks the guy. She replies, "I really should have mentioned this earlier, but I'm actually a prostitute, and I charge $100 for sex." The man thinks about it for a few seconds, but then reluctantly gets out a $100 bill, pays her, and they have sex. After a cigarette, he just sits in the driver's seat looking out the window. "Why aren't we going anywhere?" asks the girl. "Well, I should have mentioned this before," replies the man, "but I'm actually a taxi driver, and the fare back to town is $50.

A little boy with diarrhea tells his mom that he needs Viagra. The mom asks, "Why on Earth do you need that?!" The little boy says, "Isn't that what you give daddy when his shit doesn't get hard?"

A child asked his father, "How were people born?" So his father said, "Adam and Eve made babies, then their babies became adults and made babies, and so on." The child then went to his mother, asked her the same question and she told him, "We were monkeys then we evolved to become like we are now." The child ran back to his father and said, "You lied to me!" His father replied, "No, your mom was talking about her side of the family."

A guy took his blonde girlfriend to her first football game. They had great seats right behind their team's bench. After the game, he asked her how she liked the experience. "Oh, I really liked it," she replied, "especially the tight pants and all the big muscles, but I just couldn't understand why they were killing each other over 25 cents." Dumbfounded, her date asked, "What do you mean?" "Well, they flipped a coin, one team got it, and then for the rest of the game, all they kept screaming was, 'Get the quarterback! Get the quarterback!' I'm like, hello? It's only 25 cents!"

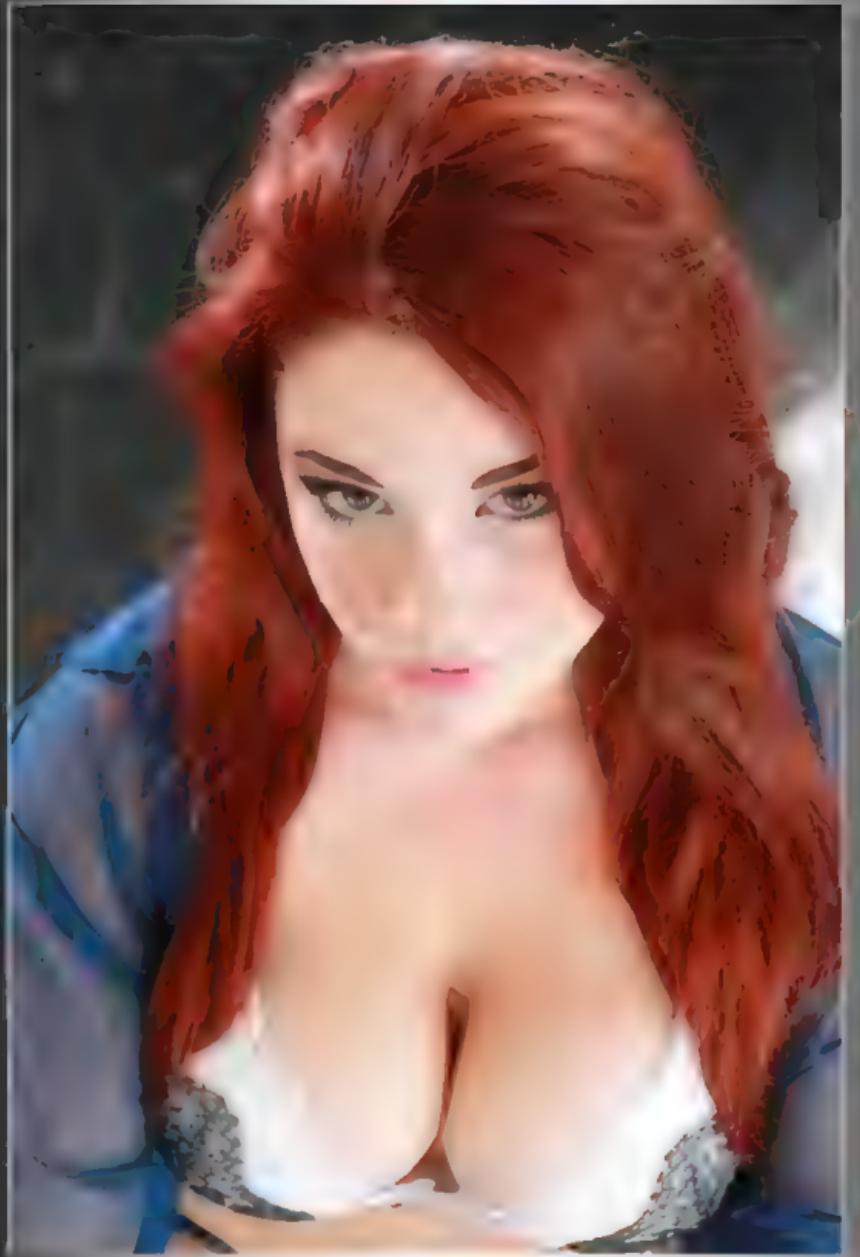

A guy was driving in a car with a blonde. He told her to stick her head out the window and see if the blinker worked. She stuck her head out and said, "Yes, No, Yes, No, Yes..."

Honey West Presents Retro

Welcome to my new quarterly feature, "Honey West Presents-Retro". I'll be reviewing my top recommendations for the coolest retro films and performers from the mainstream world as well as the Golden Age of Adult. I'm a hardcore fan of all things retro, so I hope my reviews will inspire you to check it out! Let's get this party started with the swinging, sexy 1968 sci-fi cult classic, "Barbarella", starring Jane Fonda.

I must admit, the first time I saw Barbarella, I thought it was awful! Beyond awful! But hey, I was just a dumb kid at the time. What did I know about orgasmatron machines or little white pills that substitute for earthly male/female sex?

The Future: telepathic hand sex!

A couple of years ago, I was bored and out of curiosity dug out my VHS copy of Barbarella (yes, I still have a few old school VHS tapes around!). This time, I was absolutely blown away by the brilliant eye candy visuals, the stunningly delectable bod of Jane Fonda, the psychedelic sets, the costumes, and the overall wack vibe of the whole production. I instantly fell in lust with this amazing THING which defied description, and I was also a bit angry at myself for hating it years ago. But a light went off in my mind as I understood that sometimes we have to grow into a movie, let it catch up with us, like a pair of gloves that doesn't quite fit, but over time magically becomes the perfect size. Barbarella is now one of my all-time faves and I've watched it numerous times since. It's like gorging on a big batch of the grooviest 60's brownies or taking the freakiest acid trip (not that I know anything about acid trips heh heh).

I'm a sucker for a babe spread-eagled in metallic space wear!

It helps to have some background before seeing the movie. Barbarella is based on a 1962 comic strip series by French artist, Jean Claude Forest. The main character, Barbarella, travels from planet to planet as a sort of secret agent, experiencing sexual awakening and adventures which are hot and trippy and fun. The key is that she uses her sexuality to get herself in and out of trouble. She is assisted in her exploits by a blind angel named Pygar, searching for an evil character named Durand-Durand who is putting the universe in danger. (The pop band Duran Duran actually took its name from this character.)

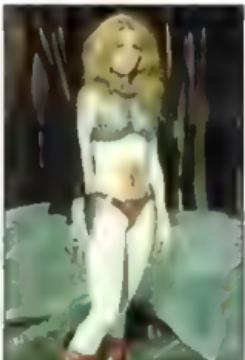

The wide-eyed heroine Barbarella is an innocent who wanders through many strange lands wearing kinky metallic spacesuits that seem painted on her unbelievably perfect ass, encountering wild scenarios that could only be captured through the lens of an era devoted to mind-bendingly high levels of creativity. This movie reminds me once again of what a major sex goddess Jane Fonda was in her prime, and what an amazing era the 60's was for being so filled with lush visuals, saturated colors and concepts on screen that can never be captured the same way in today's films. Yes, we have more

"technology" in films today, but do we have more heart? More erotic fun? More creativity? No!

This freaky flick is filled with quirky twists and turns - for us retro-lovers, it's the edgy "kink" that really makes it worth the journey.

Edgy stuff such as?

Well, how about the scene where the evil Durand - Durand tries to kill Barbarella by giving her a fatal orgasm, strapping her into a device that looks like a weird piano.

Death by sexual ecstasy, hmmm? However, as the device called "The Excessive Machine" relentlessly hits all the tingly bits of her body, it bursts into flame, short-circuited by Barbarella's very own super-heightened sexuality. She slowly becomes aware of her own sexual powers, but in an innocent, funny way. That's pretty much my definition of groovy!

And then there's those outlandishly luscious shots of Jane's beautiful bare boobies floating in zero gravity as she strips out of her metallic suit. Wow! And the scene where Barbarella encounters The Great Tyrant, played by sultry sexpot Anita Pallenberg as a sort of sci-fi lesbo sado seductress in black leather. This babe oozes 60's British cool.

One character is named Dildano, which of course is close enough to "dildo" to get laughs from today's audiences. Dildano and Barbarella erotically hook up via telepathic sex by pressing their palms together. Really, the best way to enjoy all this wack stuff is to relax and soak it in, like watching a perpetually psychedelic lava lamp. Even if you lose track of the plot, don't worry, it's really not so much about the plot as the trippy visual experience.

Movies ahead of their time often bomb at the box office, and Barbarella bombed big time. It was considered one of the worst jokes in movie history. For years, the word Barbarella = FLOP! I'm pretty sure Jane Fonda still hates it. When she morphed into Ms. Politically Correct Feminist, she rejected her sex goddess status, which is a pity because she is a majorly hot babe in this movie! But we needn't be concerned with Ms. Fonda's hang-ups; our only job is to immerse ourselves in the fun of watching her perfect bod as she inhabits the character of Barbarella.

Important Retro Fact you will learn from this movie:

Spaceships of the future will have orange shag carpet interiors!

Aww, yes, how I'd love to have a spaceship with shag carpeting! Take my advice: if you're longing for an authentic dose of "blast from the past" bliss, you MUST rent this movie! And maybe someday you'll be lucky enough to plunge headfirst into a freaky time warp and see it on the big screen at a retro film festival. I guarantee, Barbarella will orgasmtronically blow your mind! Apparently there's an uncut European version floating around that shows even more of Jane's gravity defying boobies! And please, dear God, I beg Hollywood, don't ever do a remake of this vintage masterpiece! Let this uniquely bizarre and lovely gem inhabit a place all its own in the universe, standing alone, in film history.

Photographed by genius cinematographer Claude Renoir, Barbarella is best viewed when you're a bit drunk and feeling no pain! .

Quick Synopsis:

Barbarella (Jane Fonda) must find Doctor Durand-Durand (Milo O'Shea) who has vanished in Tau Ceti region of space. While searching, she's helped by a blind angel named Pygar (John Phillip Law).

She battles the exotically sexy Great Tyrant (Anita Pallenberg) in the City of Night called Sogo. Durand-Durand also has plans which could put Earth in danger. Directed by Roger Vadim, (Jane Fonda's husband at the time), Barbarella is based on the French comic by Jean-Claude Forest that first appeared in 1962.

Award-winning photographer Jack Watson has crafted a unique book dedicated to female glamour images created in black and white to honor the famous Hollywood film photographs of the 1920's and 30's. With the help of a large collection of stunning glamour models who have been featured globally in many print, web, and video media including Playboy Enterprise™, Watson shows you how he creates stunning, seductive glamour black and white images out of virtually any color glamour photograph. Dispelling the myth that not all color images make good black and white images, this book illustrates how virtually any glamour photo is created the look of the Hollywood masters.

Jack Watson's Complete Guide to Creating Black and White Female Glamour Images includes a CD with every photo in the book. All of the black and white photos started out as color digital files. They have been provided in their original color form for your unrestricted non-commercial use. This book is for those who have some basic Photoshop skills and want to broaden their horizons and experience with additional plug-ins and software such as Nik Color Efex Pro Complete, Nik Silver Efex Pro, Topaz Adjust, and Topaz BW Effects. It's also for anyone who just loves looking at beautiful black and white female glamour images.

While most of the images in the book are "nude," a number of examples show how easy it is not always the naked truth, but quite the contrary. Clothed or nude, the female form is a thing of beauty. At the very least, this book will make you rethink what is truly glamorous. Creating black and white glamour photos will help you see with your brain and feel with your heart. Remember it's not what you see in a photograph that moves you; it's what you don't see. So, boot up your computer, open your favorite photo software, and put the CD in the drive, and create some magic.
